1. District Narrative – This is Jones County Schools

Tagline

Built by Our Town. Built for What's Next.

Key Themes

- The Mission – We exist for one reason: to propel every student toward a future that is uniquely theirs. Whether that path leads to college, technical training, military service, or the workforce, every direction matters, every accomplishment is celebrated, and every student belongs here.
- The Community Connection – Our schools are built by our community. Families who show up. Educators who choose to invest here day after day, year after year. Business leaders and alumni who continue to give back. That kind of commitment can't be forced. It is built over time, and it is one of our greatest strengths.
- The Pathways – We meet students where they are and help them move forward with purpose. Through advanced coursework, career and technical pathways, and a growing school choice initiative, we are opening clear, intentional opportunities for every student to succeed.
- The Proof – Success happens every day across our district. Students are excelling in academics, athletics, arts, and career pathways, supported by dedicated teachers and strong community partnerships. Collaborations with higher education organizations like Georgia Tech, Georgia College & State University, Central Georgia Technical College, and local industry partners demonstrate that our students are connected to real opportunities and real outcomes.
- The Promise – Our commitment goes beyond sharing good news. We are building a district where communication is clear, involvement is welcomed, and the community feels connected to our work. We want families, businesses, and community members to see themselves as part of what we are building. When our community is engaged, our students thrive. That is how we show, not just say, that students learn more here.

What We Want the Community to Believe

- Our students are gaining the knowledge, skills, and experiences needed to succeed after graduation
- Every student has a clear pathway and real opportunities available, regardless of their goals
- Our schools are supported by a strong, invested community that plays an active role in student success
- Communication from our district is clear, consistent, and trustworthy
- Jones County Schools provides a level of learning, support, and opportunity that stands apart from surrounding options

2. 2-Week Promotional Campaign – Our Town. Our Team. Built for This.

Campaign Overview

This two-week campaign is designed to increase student engagement, strengthen school pride, and drive attendance at Friday night football games. The campaign focuses on building student ownership of the game day experience, while leveraging that energy to increase broader community participation.

The social media graphic series with caption copy, sample launch emails, and supporting materials can be viewed at https://scarlettscoville.github.io/jccommunicationdirector/.

Objectives

- Increase student section participation (Barking Lot)
- Increase overall game attendance
- Strengthen school pride and student ownership
- Increase community and business engagement
- Amplify district visibility and positive storytelling

Target Audience:

At the core of this campaign are our current Jones County High School students, because this campaign is as much about building school spirit as it is about filling the stands. The Jones County football team has a passionate community following. Our purpose is to close the gap between the stands and the student section, known as the "Barking Lot," by giving students a reason to feel like Friday night belongs to them, too.

The secondary audience includes parents, families, alumni, local businesses, and community partners who already invest in Jones County, as well as prospective families and neighboring communities we hope to engage and welcome.

The goal is to unite our community around a Friday night tradition that makes every student, family, and community member proud to be a Greyhound.

Campaign Tagline:

Our Town. Our Team. Built for This.

Supporting Messages:

- Our student athletes are young people of character built on the principles of TOUGH: Truth, Ownership, Unity, Gratitude, and Honor.
- Jones County built these players. Jones County shows up for its own.
- Every Jones County Greyhound has a role on Friday nights, whether they are on the field, in the band, or cheering in the stands.
- Friday nights on Greyhound Field are proof that our students are learning more, doing more, and becoming more.
- This is our town. This is our team. The lights are calling. Greyhounds were built for this.

Success Metrics: Success will be measured not only by reach, but by increased participation, engagement, and community involvement.

- Social media reach, impressions, shares, and follower growth across all platforms compared to prior season averages
- Email open rate targeting 35%+ with 10% click-through
- Game attendance ticket count compared to prior season with specific attention to student section turnout in the Barking Lot
- Volume of student-generated content using campaign hashtags
- Community engagement including business and alumni mentions, tags, and shares
- Post-game sentiment measured through comments and reactions on recap content

3. The First 90 Days: Building Momentum for the District Vision

Days 1-30: Listen, Learn, and Start Telling the Story

- I will spend the first 30 days listening, learning, and telling the story. That means visiting every school, evaluating our existing newsletters, communication calendar, websites, and social media content for consistency, clarity, and reach, and actively capturing student and staff successes to share across platforms. With 18 years living in this community and serving our school system, I am not starting from zero. I am building a foundation of trust and relationships to signal from day one that Jones County Schools is transparent and committed to every student.
- Audit emergency and critical communication protocols to ensure time-sensitive messages reach all stakeholders quickly and through redundant channels, eliminating gaps between social media, email, and automated call systems.

Days 31-60: Build the Systems That Sustain the Story

- Establish a consistent internal communication cadence using email and Microsoft Teams to reduce fragmented email communication and create a centralized, transparent flow of information for faculty and staff.
- Partner with principals, teachers, and students to begin developing a storytelling toolkit, including district and school-specific branding guidelines, content templates, and platform-specific best practices to ensure every school tells its story authentically and consistently aligned with the district's voice.

Days 61-90: Amplify and Activate

- Launch the storytelling toolkit districtwide, equipping every school with the resources and support needed to tell their own story. When principals, teachers, and students share their own stories, the district narrative becomes richer, more authentic, and more credible than anything a single communications office could produce alone.
- By day 90, the foundation is set. Every school has a voice, every family has a reliable line of communication, and the community is beginning to see and believe that students in Jones County are learning more, doing more, and becoming more than anywhere else. From there, we measure results, continue to gather feedback, and use that data to continuously strengthen our approach.
